

2018 Winter Conference: Innovations in Primary Care Concurrent Session and Keynote Biographies

Rachel Arnold, JD, MPH, Medical Legal Partnership of Oregon

rachel@healthshareoregon.org

Rachel is a Co-Founder and Executive Director of the Medical Legal Partnership of Oregon (MLPO), a non-profit organization developed to serve as a resource for all MLPs in Oregon. Rachel also serves as the Director of Contracting and Network Management at Health Share of Oregon. Prior to joining Health Share, Rachel was an Associate General Counsel with Cambia Health Solutions. She earned her MPH from Oregon State University and her JD from Willamette University College of Law.

Scott Balzer, Samaritan Family Medicine Resident Clinic

sbalzer@samhealth.org

Scott is the Operations Manager of Family Medicine Resident Clinic and Veterans Outreach for Samaritan Health Services in Corvallis, Oregon. Scott received a Bachelor of Liberal Arts Degree from Oregon State University and is currently pursuing his Master's Degree in Public Health.

Christine Bernsten, Health Share of Oregon

christine@healthshareoregon.org

Christine is the Director of Strategic Initiatives for Health Share of Oregon. In this role Christine oversees strategic investments to support the wellbeing of children, families, and communities through prevention, support for recovery, and focused investment in health equity. Prior to joining Health Share she worked at Multnomah County Health Department in a variety of program areas including primary care, emergency preparedness, and tobacco prevention. Christine lives in Portland with her husband and two children.

Renee Boak, MPH, CADC I, Cascadia Behavioral Healthcare

renee.boak@cascadiabhc.org

Renee is Cascadia's Senior Director of Integrated Health Services and is the Project Director for the Certified Community Behavioral Healthcare Clinics. Renee's background in public health is perfect for Cascadia's initiatives to integrate primary health care into its comprehensive community mental health and addictions services. Renee completed her Master's Degree in Public Health in 2010 at Portland State University. Renee is also adjunct faculty in Pacific University's Masters in Healthcare Administration program.

Graham Bouldin, MSW, Health Share of Oregon

graham@healthshareoregon.org

Graham is the Director of Health System Performance with Health Share of Oregon, overseeing the CCO's quality metrics, quality improvement, and data analytics work. He received his MSW from Portland State University in 2005 and has been working in the Medicaid system for more than 15 years with a focus on neurodevelopment, childhood trauma, children's systems of care, and implementing the coordinated care organization model. Prior to joining Health Share, he worked for both Morrison Child and Family Services and Clackamas County Behavioral Health.

Debra Catlin, Oregon Doula Association

debcatlin@aol.com

Debra has been in the field of perinatal education for 31 years as an ICEA Certified Childbirth and Postnatal Educator and a DONA International Certified Birth Doula and Approved Trainer. She co-founded a non-profit organization in Lane County that offered expansive education and support services to expectant and new parents at which she provided pre and postpartum depression support services. She is currently serving on Oregon State Traditional Health Worker Systems Integration Subcommittee, helping to implement the new law utilizing doula services for Medicaid clients.

Britny Chandler, InterCommunity Health Network

bchandle@samhealth.org

Britny is the Dental Program Clinical Coordinator at InterCommunity Health Network. She has aided in the outreach efforts within the Linn, Benton, and Lincoln County region to further dental integration within primary care offices, schools, and older adult care facilities. Her goals for 2018 integration efforts include reaching out to obstetric clinics, school based health centers, and furthering integration within the Health Plans.

Keith Cheng, MD

chengk@ohsu.edu

Keith has provided psychiatric services in Oregon since 1990 after completing his postdoctoral fellowship in child and adolescent psychiatry at the Yale University Child Study Center. Keith is Clinical Associate Professor in the Department of Psychiatry at OHSU and has a longstanding interest in psychiatric education. Keith served as the Interim Medical Director of Adolescent Programs at Unity Center for Behavioral Health and Medical Director of the Oregon Psychiatric Access Line about Kids (OPAL-K). In January 2018, Keith joined CareOregon where he is now the Associate Medical Director for Behavioral Health.

Paul Coelho, MD, Salem Pain Clinic

paul.coelho@salemhealth.org

Paul is a Physical Medicine And Rehabilitation Specialist in Salem, Oregon. He graduated with honors from University Of Chicago, Pritzker School Of Medicine in 1995. Having more than 23 years of diverse experiences, especially in physical medicine, rehabilitation and interventional pain management, Paul affiliates with Salem Hospital, cooperating with other doctors and specialists in many medical groups including The Corvallis Clinic and Salem Health.

Cheryl Coon, JD, Refugee Disability Benefits of Oregon

cheryl@rdbbo.org

Cheryl is the Executive Director of Refugee Disability Benefits Oregon, a nonprofit established to meet the needs of disabled refugees and immigrants in Oregon. She holds a B.A. magna cum laude from Bryn Mawr College, J.D. cum laude from Boston University School of Law, and LL.M.

from the University of Washington School of Law. She has litigated in federal courts, worked on public policy issues in Congress and worked on public policy in Oregon as a senior assistant attorney general with the Oregon Department of Justice and has also been in private practice.

Dawn Cogliser, FNP-BC, Options for Southern Oregon

dcogliser@optionsonline.org

Dawn is a Family Nurse Practitioner, and holds a board certification as a Psychiatric-Mental Health Registered Nurse. Dawn provides primary care to Southern Oregon's most vulnerable population through an integrated practice within the community mental health organization Options for Southern Oregon. She is the lead clinician responsible for the clinic obtaining not only PCPCH status, but being granted 5-Star PCPCH status. She also works a few days a week at the Grants Pass Treatment Center treating patients struggling with addiction.

Carol Criswell, Providence Child Center

carol.criswell@providence.org

Carol's experience includes being selected as a LEND (Leadership Education in Neurodevelopmental Disabilities) Trainee in the Family Discipline and working as a Family Navigator at OHSU's CDRC. She is currently the Program Manager at Providence Swindells Resource Center where she directly supervises three Family Navigators in a pilot program paid for by Health Share of Oregon. In addition, Carol is part of a team that is designing a curriculum to train a workforce of Family Support Specialists who will become certified Traditional Health Workers, billable through Medicaid.

Audelia DeCosta, MSW, LCSW, Metropolitan Pediatrics

adecosta@metropediatrics.com

Audelia earned her Masters degree in Social Work from Portland State University in 2009. Her experience has included working with children and youth with sexual acting out behaviors, some involved in the juvenile justice system, and practicing as a pediatric social worker at Doernbecher Children's Hospital, specializing in child abuse and neglect, adjustment to hospitalization and illness, and mental health assessments and interventions. At Metropolitan Pediatrics, she is on the integrated behavioral health team, providing brief assessment, triage, and intervention to children and families.

Brian Don, PhD, Cascadia Behavioral Healthcare

brian.don.oregon@gmail.com

Brian Don is Cascadia's Population Health Analyst. His responsibilities are a) utilizing inferential statistics to identify population-level patterns in mental and physical health to inform clinical care, and b) directing research and innovation designed to improve client outcomes. Brian has an extensive publication history in the area of Social-Health Psychology, where he is recognized as an expert in the study of intimate relationships. Brian received his Ph.D. in Social-Health Psychology and M.A. in Experimental Psychology from Kent State University, and his B.A. in Psychology from Kenyon College.

LaKeesha Dumas, Multnomah County

lakeesha.dumas@multco.us

LaKeesha is the Coordinator for the Office of Consumer Engagement for Multnomah County's Mental Health and Addictions Services Division. She is in recovery from substance use disorder and mental health challenges. LaKeesha is a state-certified Community Health Worker and a Peer Support Specialist. Through her advocacy for culturally-specific mental health services for those on the Oregon Health Plan, she was the recipient of the Oregon Public Health Association 2014 Emerging Leader Award. LaKeesha was also a Recipient of the 2017 Queer Hero's NW Award.

Jeffrey C. Eisen, M.D., M.B.A, Cascadia Behavioral Healthcare

jeffrey.eisen@cascadiabhc.org

Jeffrey recently joined Cascadia as Chief Medical Officer. He holds a BA in Economics and Mathematical Methods in Social Sciences from Northwestern University, an MBA in Public and Non-Profit Management from the Stanford University Graduate School of Business, an MD from the University of Chicago Pritzker School of Medicine, completed his postdoctoral residency in adult psychiatry at Harvard Medical School, and was awarded a fellowship in public sector forensic psychiatry at the University of Massachusetts. His psychiatry training emphasized the delivery of care to homeless, incarcerated, and socioeconomically marginalized individuals.

Carol Endo, MD, Randall Children's Hospital at Legacy Emanuel

cendo@lhs.org

Carol is a pediatrician in Portland, Oregon and is affiliated with Legacy Emanuel Hospital and Health Center. She received her medical degree from University of Chicago Pritzker School of Medicine and has been in practice for more than 20 years.

Joan Fleishman, PsyD, OHSU Department of Family Medicine

fleishma@ohsu.edu

Joan has focused her career on integrating behavioral health into primary care settings and working with diverse populations struggling with issues such as depression, anxiety, relationships issues, insomnia, high blood pressure, diabetes, weight loss and many others. Her goal in treatment focuses on improving their quality of life and daily function. She has specialized in training medical residents and psychology students in the integrated model of primary care.

Alyssa Franzen, DMD, Care Oregon

franzena@careoregon.org

Alyssa is the Executive Dental Director at CareOregon and serves as the dental director for CareOregon Dental, Columbia Pacific CCO and Jackson Care Connect. She leads oral health strategy across the organization with the goal of improving oral health, clinical integration and access to care for all populations served by CareOregon. Prior to joining CareOregon in early 2014, she served as the dental director for the Multnomah County Health Department where she led 6 clinics, a school based dental sealant program, a managed care plan and maintained a clinical practice. Alyssa is a graduate of OHSU School of Dentistry and the University of Portland and is a life-long Oregonian.

Erin Grady, PhD, Metropolitan Pediatrics

ergrady@metropediatrics.com

Erin is a licensed psychologist who provides evidence-based assessment and cognitive-behavioral interventions for children and families at Metropolitan Pediatrics in Portland. Erin takes a positive, strengths-based approach to helping children and parents understand, accept, and cope with challenges and changes in their lives. Borrowed from renowned psychologist Dr Ross Greene, Erin believes “kids do well if they can” and that the most effective way to teach children new habits of thinking and behaving is to create opportunities for children to experience behavioral success. Erin also specializes in Parent-Child Interaction Therapy, a treatment focused on coaching parents to build positive relationships and use behavior management techniques with their young children.

Michele Guerrero, RD, Yakima Valley Farm Workers Clinic

michelegu@yvwfc.org

Michele is the Regional Primary Care Nutrition Services Supervisor for ten Oregon and Washington clinics that are part of Yakima Valley Farm Workers Clinic’s network of care. She received her Bachelors of Science in Food and Nutritional Sciences at Seattle Pacific University.

Sean Hubert, Chief Housing and Employment Officer, Central City Concern

sean.hubert@ccconcern.org

Sean began at Central City Concern in 2007 after a decade managing affordable housing communities in Oregon and Washington. Besides his current role as Chief Housing and Employment Officer, he has worked as CCC’s senior director of housing, leading efforts to integrate, streamline and improve housing, services and facility operations. Sean has overseen over $200M in real estate development at CCC spanning both housing and clinical facilities and worked to support and expand employment opportunities for CCC residents and clients. Sean is active in a number of community and industry efforts, serving as board chair of Housing Oregon and the Oregon Facilities Authority, and has been an advisory member to several City of Portland initiatives. He received his B.A. from Shippensburg University and is a licensed Property Manager in Oregon.

Robert Hughes, DO, Samaritan Family Medicine Resident Clinic

rhughes@samhealth.org

Prior to joining Samaritan Family Medicine, Robert was in private practice in Virginia. In 1992, Robert was a recipient of the Howard Hughes Medical Institute research grant in microbiology. In 1993, he researched leukemia as part of a thesis in experimental pathophysiology at The Roswell Park Cancer institute in Buffalo, New York. Robert is affiliated with the American Academy of Family Physicians and the American Osteopathic Association.

Alexa Jett, EPDH, CareOregon

jetta@careoregon.org

Alexa graduated from OHSU's Dental Hygiene program with a Bachelor of Science Degree in Dental Hygiene. As CareOregon's Dental Innovations Specialist, Alexa serves our Medicaid community in two capacities: providing technical assistance and project management as a practice coach for the CareOregon Dental provider network, supporting CareOregon's primary care network in the Metro, Jackson Care Connect and Columbia Pacific CCO regions with oral health integration, and as a First Tooth trainer. Alexa holds her Expanded Practice Dental Hygiene license and has clinical experience in both private practice and FQHC public health settings. She is passionate about oral health because a healthy mouth is vital to one's overall well-being.

Michael Johnson, Ph.D., St. Charles Health System

mjohnson@stcharleshealthcare.org

Mike joined the Decision Support team at St. Charles Health System in May 2016. Before that, he spent eight years as the Director of Institutional Research at Dickinson College in Carlisle, PA. Mike started his career as an Army officer and after about 10 years with light and airborne engineer troop units he taught calculus, statistics and math modeling in the Department of Mathematics at the U.S. Military Academy at West Point. The last three years at West Point he was the chief of the institutional research and analysis branch at the U.S. Military Academy. He earned a Ph.D. in Industrial Engineering in 2001 from the University of Central Florida, a Master's in Operations Research from the Naval Postgraduate School in 1994 and a B.S. in Mathematics from Central Washington University in his hometown of Ellensburg in 1984.

Lynn Knox, Oregon Food Bank

lknox@oregonfoodbank.org

Lynn is the State Health Care Liaison for the Oregon Food Bank (OFB). She works with health care providers across the state to provide training and technical assistance on implementation of food insecurity screening and a wide range of interventions to address it. Currently, Lynn is mobilizing OFB's healthcare partners across the state to press for maintenance of comprehensive, quality health care and food assistance programs at the state and federal level. Lynn has worked with the Oregon Health Authority to develop a food insecurity screening and intervention Medicaid performance improvement metric and to incorporate the two question screening into other patient assessment tools. Her work at the national level has included advocacy for the incorporation of food insecurity screening into electronic health records systems and serving as the founding facilitator for a learning exchange about health care engagement with Food Banks across the United States.

Douglas Lincoln, MD, MPH, Metropolitan Pediatrics

lknox@oregonfoodbank.org

Douglas is a general pediatrician at Metropolitan Pediatrics in Portland. He attended Tulane University for medical school, where he also received his Master of Public Health, witnessing the connection between environment and health first-hand in New Orleans post-Hurricane Katrina. He went on to complete residencies in Pediatrics and Preventive Medicine at Oregon Health and Science University. Following completion of his residencies, he worked at an underserved community health center in northeastern Pennsylvania via the National Health Service Corps. He joined Metropolitan Pediatrics in 2016 after serving as medical director of OHSU's General Pediatrics clinic. In addition to his practice, Douglas advocates for children via state committee work such as the Patient-Centered Primary Care Home Standards Advisory Committee and the Primary Care Payment Reform Collaborative.

Ally Linfoot, Clackamas County

alinfoot@co.clackamas.or.us

Ally has worked in peer services for nearly 20 years. She came to this work through her son, now 26, who has struggled since the age of 4. In recent years she has used her own personal mental health experiences to work on issues affecting youth and young adults, children and families, and adults in the mental health and addictions systems. For the last seven years Ally has worked for the Clackamas County Behavioral Health Division developing a Peer Services System of Care that provides 15 different peer support programs in Clackamas County. Clackamas County Peer Services System of Care provides support to over 5000 people annually and supports the work of 95 Peer Support Specialists.

Emily Marshall, OSM IV, Salem Pain Clinic

emarshall@westernu.edu

Emily is a fourth year medical student at Western University of Health Sciences in Lebanon, OR. She completed a BA in Social Sciences from Washington State University. Her special interests are primary care in rural and underserved areas as well as developing ways of overcoming cultural and socioeconomic barriers to care.

Bobby Martin, Health Share of Oregon

bobby@healthshareoregon.org

Bobby is the Foster Care Systems Manager for Health Share of Oregon, supporting the organization's strategic initiatives to build a system of care that understands and meets the unique needs of children in foster care. In addition to his work in the clinical transformation arena, Bobby is the CCO's Wraparound and Systems of Care site lead. Prior to joining Health Share he worked in secure psychiatric inpatient, mental health residential, juvenile justice, and therapeutic foster care programs.

Mark Maul, CPhT, St. Charles Health System

msmaul@stcharleshealthcare.org

Mark began his career in the fitness industry specializing in post-injury rehabilitation as a personal trainer. At St. Charles Health System, he emphasized his time in Cardiopulmonary Rehab and successfully spearheaded the processes needed for the department to receive national accreditation. Mark then moved from the direct patient care setting to the Information Technology department as a team lead in clinical informatics and EHR analyst. Recently, Mark has been working with the Decision Support department as a Business Intelligence Developer focusing on supporting the areas of cardiology, laboratory, and radiology with the upcoming Epic EHR implementation. Mark received a B.S. in Exercise & Sports Science with options in both Fitness Program Management and Pre-Physical Therapy from Oregon State University in 2004. He also is a certified pharmacy technician.

Maggie McLain McDonnell, MPH, Oregon Rural Practice-Based Research Network

mclainma@ohsu.edu

Maggie is a Project Manager at Oregon Rural Practice-based Research Network within Oregon Health & Science University. Maggie earned a Masters in Public Health and Bachelors of Business Administration from The George Washington University in Washington, DC. In her role with ORPRN, she serves as the program manager for the Oregon ECHO Network. She has over 10 years' experience in public health, physical activity, and wellness.

Christina Milano, MD, OHSU Transgender Health Program

milanoc@ohsu.edu

Christina is an Associate Professor of Family Medicine at OHSU, and has spent the last 12 years providing primary care for low-income patients at the OHSU Richmond clinic in SE Portland. She has expertise in the realm of gender-affirming care, and in 2012, co-founded the OHSU Transgender Health Program – the only academic, interdisciplinary program of its kind in the country. Christina is also the creator and medical director of the Richmond Engagement and Community Health team, a collaborative endeavor between CareOregon and OHSU Richmond designed to increase the health resiliency of Medicaid members who are struggling to manage advanced illness in the setting of social isolation. She also recently served for 2 years as the medical director of CareOregon Metro, in service to 150,000 Medicaid members living in greater Portland.

Miranda Miller, Samaritan Family Medicine Resident Clinic

mmiller@samhealth.org

Miranda is the Director of Primary Care in Corvallis for Samaritan Health Services. Miranda helps lead the primary care clinics to improve access and patient satisfaction while reducing system costs, and coordinating care. Miranda helps two Comprehensive Primary Care Plus clinics and four certified patient-centered primary care homes (PCPCH), one being a 5-STAR clinic. Miranda strives to identify innovative ways to meet the demands of primary care and assist in additional options and support for patients and clinic teams. Miranda can answer questions about the journey that care coordination has taken at Samaritan and how building relationships across the communities will further this development.

Christine Mosbaugh, Benton County Health Department

christine.mosbaugh@co.benton.or.us

Christine is the Engagement and Communications Coordinator for the Community Health Centers of Benton and Linn Counties (CHC), a six clinic, patient-centered primary care home with integrated, team-based services. She supports team needs, particularly around integration of patient voice and engagement; she works with organization leadership to think about innovations in the primary care space; and she builds community partnership and participates in efforts with local organizations to build a space in line with the CHC mission of 'healthy people, strong communities'.

Dean Moshofsky, MD, Children’s Health Alliance

dmoshofsky@hotmail.com

Dean is a native of Portland and attended OHSU for medical school and his pediatric residency. He has been practicing pediatrics since 1986. Dean serves on the Board of Directors of Children’s Health Alliance and Foundation, currently as vice-president. He is helping to lead a quality project of Building Resilience in Children and Parents, currently in progress with 22 practices and over 100 providers. Dean also serves on the board of directors for nonprofit group Compassion First, which provides long-term aftercare for girls rescued from sexual trafficking. He and his wife Sarah serve as Co-Directors of Care overseeing an aftercare facility in Indonesia, making annual trips to visit the shelter.

Edna Nyamu, Oregon Community Health Workers Association

ednaglena@orchwa.org

Edna is the Deputy Director for the Oregon Community Health Workers Association (ORCHWA). Edna received her Master of Science in Global Health at the National University of Natural Medicine (NUNM) from Portland, Oregon. She is also a certified Community Health Worker by the State of Oregon, and a member of the Traditional Health Worker Commission under Oregon Health Authority’s Office of Equity and Inclusion. Edna speaks three languages, Swahili, Maasai, and English, and does Swahili language interpretation. She has a deep understanding of cross-cultural practice and has years of experience working closely with immigrants, refugees, and people of color. In her work with ORCHWA, Edna is able to use her position to advocate for community health workers and communities that experience health disparities across the state of Oregon.

Tara O'Connor, PMHNP, OHSU Department of Family Medicine

connota@ohsu.edu

Tara is a licensed psychiatric and mental health nurse practitioner (PMHNP) interested in providing quality, compassionate, and comprehensive mental health services to adolescents and adults. She has special interest in integration of behavioral medicine in the patient centered medical home, intimate partner violence, suicide prevention, and interprofessional education. Tara possesses strong clinical skills enhanced by natural ability to build rapport with patients and families. She follows evidence-based guidelines blended with clinical experience, personal observation, and intuition. As a psychiatric and mental health nurse practitioner, Tara’s role is multifaceted, including educator, mental health advocate, therapist, and scientist. After nearly nine years of clinical practice, Tara is currently pursuing her Doctor of Nursing Practice degree.

Nwando Olayiwola, RubiconMD

nwando@rubiconmd.com

Nwando is a masterful organizer and strategic thinker on workplace and workforce diversity, cultural competence and inclusion, and health/healthcare disparities. She helps organizations, companies, governments, ministries of health, health systems and health care leaders make real and lasting change in their delivery models and infrastructure, including workforce diversity, cultural competence and inclusion; design and test innovations that achieve these aims; develop new models of care and interaction in the multi-dimensional spheres, and inspire leaders, change agents and current and future professionals.

Amy Penkin, LCSW, OHSU Transgender Health Program

penkin@ohsu.edu

Amy joined OHSU in January 2015 as the Program Supervisor for the newly launched Transgender Health Program. She has been a clinical social worker for 20 years and throughout her career has provided direct care, advocacy, education, program management, and supervision/consultation in community mental health and healthcare environments. Amy has a history of providing and overseeing care for the LGBTQ community and is dedicated to promoting health equity for these and other underserved populations experiencing health disparities. She has travelled extensively for social work and human rights projects in Central and South America and throughout Asia. Amy earned her Master's degree in Social Work from the Univ. of California, Berkeley and subsequently served as Adjunct Faculty and Field Instructor for Schools of Social work at UC Berkeley, San Francisco State University, Smith College, and Portland State University.

Katy Pranian, Multnomah County Health Department

katy.pranian@multco.us

Katy is the Community Health Worker Program Coordinator for Multnomah County Health Department's Integrated Clinical Services (ICS). She coordinates the CSA Partnerships for Health (CSAP4H) programming in each of the primary care clinics. Currently, she sits on the CSAP4H Leadership Team, as well as on the following subcommittees: Education, Evaluation and Clinics. Katy has been intimately involved with the CSAP4H since 2013, when it started around the table at the Patient Self Management Collaborative as a grand idea and a way to address food insecurity in the clinic's patient population. Katy has played an integral role in helping to shape the growth and strength of CSAP4H.

Frances Purdy, MEd. JD, Oregon Health Authority

frances.s.purdy@state.or.us

Frances is the Family Partnership Specialist with the Oregon Health Authority where she provides technical assistance for Systems of Care implementation, development of the Family and Youth Support workforce and the inclusion of peer delivered services in all aspects of education and comprehensive health care. She developed national credentialing for Certified Parent Support Providers with the Certification Commission for Family Support at the National Federation of Families for Children's Mental Health. Prior, she administered and provided direct client services in varied community-based and residential health, education and behavioral health settings. She has taught in the Graduate School of the University of Louisville. Additionally, she has authored over 15 articles and technical assistance manuals and presents regularly at national and international conferences on the subject of children's mental health, domestic violence and certification.

Rachel Solotaroff, MD, Central City Concern

rachel.solotaroff@ccconcern.org

Rachel became Central City Concern's President & CEO in October 2017. She came to CCC as Medical Director of Old Town Clinic in 2006, and became Chief Medical Officer in 2013. She provided clinical care in several of CCC's health care programs, with a focus on individuals with chronic pain and/or substance use disorders. Her work also includes overseeing the clinical quality and safety of CCC's patients, clients and residents. Rachel graduated from Brown University, attended Dartmouth Medical School, and completed her medical residency in Internal Medicine at the University of Virginia in Charlottesville. She also earned a master's in clinical research from OHSU while completing a Health Services Research Fellowship.

Laura Russell, JD, Metropolitan Public Defenders

lrussell@mpdlaw.com

Laura is an attorney with a passion for health equity and justice. She is the co-founder of the Medical-Legal Partnership of Oregon and the staff attorney for Oregon's first medical-legal partnership (MLP) at OHSU's Richmond Clinic. Laura is a graduate of Lewis & Clark Law School, where she served as the president of the Public Interest Law Project and co-founded the school's Health Law Society. She attended Washington State University for undergrad and graduate school, where she studied health policy. After graduate school, Laura was a health policy fellow at the University of Michigan.

Josh Steenstra, MBA, Salem Pain Clinic

joshua.steenstra@salemhealth.org

Josh holds both a Masters of Business Administration and Masters of Healthcare Administration from the University of Utah and has completed an Administrative Fellowship. He is currently the Manager of Palliative Care, Pain Management, and Neurology at Salem Health Hospitals and Clinics. He sits on a Transformation committee and Opioid Reduction committee and is focused on improving health.

Ron Stock, MD, Oregon Rural Practice-Based Research Network

stockro@gmail.com

Ron is a geriatrician, family physician, clinical health services researcher, and Clinical Innovation Advisor to the Oregon Rural Practice-based Research Network (ORPRN). He is the former Director of Clinical Innovation at the Oregon Health Authority Transformation Center. Currently he is the Co-Director of the Oregon Comprehensive Primary Care Plus regional technical assistance team and Advisor to ORPRN on the development of the Oregon ECHO Network, a multi-stakeholder consortium to support a statewide Project ECHO infrastructure. A graduate of the University of Nebraska College Of Medicine, Ron completed his residency and faculty development fellowship in Family Medicine at the Medical University of South Carolina and University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill and has a Certificate of Added Qualifications in Geriatric Medicine. He is currently an Adjunct Associate Professor of Family Medicine at Oregon Health & Sciences University.

Amy Stoeber, PhD, Children's Health Alliance

awstoeber@hotmail.com

Amy is a licensed psychologist in Portland, OR. She owns a private practice and works with children and families of all ages. She is endorsed in early childhood mental health and pediatric health. Amy serves as a member of the Healthcare Reform Taskforce for the Oregon Psychological Association. Amy has been a statewide trainer for The Department of Human Services and now works with Children's Health Alliance to promote wellness for children of all ages in pediatric settings. Her current work is promoting resilience within pediatric medical homes.

Derek Titus, OSM III, Salem Pain Clinic

dtitus@westernu.edu

Derek is a third-year medical student at Western University of Health Sciences, COMP-NW in Lebanon, OR. He completed his undergraduate studies from Brigham Young University-Idaho in Exercise Physiology. He has a special interest in preventative techniques to reduce iatrogenic opioid harms.

Robert Trachtenberg, MS, Family Medicine at Richmond

trachten@ohsu.edu

Robert obtained his Bachelor's Degree in Psychology from the University of Wisconsin-Madison and earned his Master's Degree in Science Administration and Management from St. Michael's College. He has received training in Public Health from Boston University, as well as significant training in organizational and leadership development at Tufts University Management and Community Development Institute, the Center for Creative Leadership and Brown University. Robert is currently the executive director of the Oregon Health and Science University Family Medicine Richmond Clinic, which is a Federally Qualified Health Center.

Allison Whisenhunt, LCSW Providence Seaside Hospital

Allison.Whisenhunt@providence.org

Since obtaining her MSW from Portland State University in 2005, Allison has worked as a medical social worker with hospice, a large children's hospital, and in all points of care with Providence Health & Services in Seaside, Oregon. She has been involved in several research projects, and has been a contributing author in professional journals as well as published a Best Evidence Statement (BEST) with the National Guideline Clearinghouse. Allison has presented at various conferences and in the past five years, has helped grow the Social Work & Case Management department at Providence Seaside to serve patients across the continuum of care.

Madeline Lowry Woods, LCSW, Kaiser Rockwood Clinic

madeline.lowry-woods@kp.org

Madeline is a Pediatric Case Manager at Kaiser Rockwood Medical Office. She is part of the Kaiser Pediatric Care Together project to offer enhanced primary care coordination to medically and socially complex pediatric patients, including children in foster care. Prior to Kaiser, she spent four years as a social worker at Doernbecher Children's Hospital and helped develop a foster care coordination program there as well. She worked closely alongside the pediatric residents, and in 2015 was awarded the "Clinical Staff Team Award" for exemplary contributions to resident Education. Before entering the field of medical social work, she was a child welfare caseworker for the State of Oregon for two years. She obtained her Masters in Social Work at Portland State University.

